

ABSTRACT

A piston made of a dimensionally stable material and, on the outer peripheral side, is surrounded by a sealing ring that is capable of inflating outward and made of an elastically yielding material.